

ASHURST SPEAKS TO PHOENIX AUDIENCE

Says Arizona Must Send Him to the Senate Some Time and May as Well Do it Now.

Washington street and the great white way of Phoenix, leading from it to the picture shows, were thronged with people last evening, shopping and seeking one form of diversion or another. A gathering of the overflow assembled on the city plaza to hear the pleadings of Attorney Henry F. Ashurst of Prescott, who has been retained in the case of Politician H. F. Ashurst versus the people of Arizona, in an action brought by Citizens Ashurst for the first senators. Proceedings have been instituted under the rules of practice of the democratic party but there was a lack of party machinery, supposed to be at his disposal. It had been supposed that all candidates of the democratic faith were to be treated hospitably by the local democratic club and allowed to appear under its auspices. But it transpired yesterday that the local organization had been so surcharged with O'Neill sentiment that there was a lack of Ashurst enthusiasm and the platform last night was shy of the party wheel horses. Judge Langston, however, presided and the friends of Mr. Ashurst had seen to it that the stand was suitably decorated and a band employed.

But with all these handicaps Mr. Ashurst was able to pull off rather a gingery session, even though the meeting was not a large one. It rolled along in the usual patriotic way, accompanied by an apology for the nature of his remarks which, he submitted himself, were disconnected somewhat like the links of a sausage. But when it came time to take up a charge made against him in an afternoon paper, Mr. Ashurst had an opportunity to say things. He took up a statement that he had voted against leasing public lands for a revenue for school purposes, while a member of the legislature, and that on various and sundry occasions in that body he had expected himself for the corporations. He declared that he had voted for the leasing bill and had always worked for his constituency. Then he said if there were corporations in his constituency he had never worked in their interest as against that of the people.

This was brought out by an interruption by one in the audience who said he had been a resident here for forty-five years, fighting for the people, when such men as the speaker were defending the corporations. This roused the indignation of the speaker, who said, "I hurl back to you, sir, and to all others, sir, defiance etc." to the effect that his record was clear. Then he said he would not use the word "liar" for it belonged only in the vocabulary of the ex-president. A moment later he explained how he had throttled a fellow candidate in his own county and branded him as a liar for circulating stories the speaker alleged to be untrue.

There were many interruptions at the evening progressed, and for the most part Mr. Ashurst, phrased his answers quite happily. The man who sympathized with the Haywards and Pettibones and McNamara was told that kidnapping was naughty. The man who thought the supreme court was an institution that needed trimming was told it had disrespected itself a hundred years ago and had followed precedent ever since. The old veteran was told that although the speaker's antecedents were Kentuckians and confederates he would have been a union man had he lived in those stirring times. Likewise, he believed the pensions of the veterans should be raised. To another inquirer he agreed that old age should be pensioned and to some others he said the questions were not quite clear and he would answer them later.

Thus the entertainment wore along, very like a moving picture show, with frequently changing films that ranged from comedy to anger, and even to tragedy. The speaker said the people might just as well elect him now as any time, for if defeated this campaign he will be in the field again next day after election. At the age of ten years he wrote in his spelling book, "Henry F. Ashurst, senator from Arizona," and the thing must be done. "But," said he, "I may forgive the man who murders me or the man who steals my property, but I doubt if I could forgive the man who robs me of my good name, and if I must go to the senate over the murdered corpse of the good name of some other democrat, I hope I may never achieve my ambition."

UNCLE SAM RESTRAINING TRADE

Should Uncle Sam do with impunity what he declares is unlawful for others? The government has concluded an agreement with Great Britain, Japan and Russia to restrict the production of seal skins for a definite period, the industry to be divided in certain proportions among the various countries. Washington congratulates itself on having done a commendable piece of work in protecting the seal industry. Undoubtedly this is true, but it is equally certain that this is restraint of trade, international as well as interstate. But if restraint of trade is sometimes a good thing when accomplished by Uncle Sam, why is all restraint always criminal when Uncle Sam's citizens are the parties to it? If it is a wise plan for the protection of seals and the future of that industry for four nations to limit production and to agree to a division of the trade, why is it necessarily criminal for private corporations, with exactly the same motives, to reach a similar conclusion? Should there be one code for the United States and another for citizens of the United States?—Leslie.

BASEBALL PLAYERS TO SPORT ON NEW GROUND

Going to Endeavor to Capitalize Their Confidence and the Public Enthusiasm.

The line-ups for the baseball game on the new league grounds at Third and Polk streets today at 3 p. m., will probably look something like the following:

Wagner, ss
Tower, 1b
Kennedy, 3b
Knowles, 2b
Orborn, cf
Wall, cf
Norton, c
Nellis, p
O'Toole, 2b
McNulty, rf

The game will be for a voluntary purse or collection, and the crowd is asked in advance to be as liberal as possible. The players have faith in their generosity.

"Honest" Wagner, who will play short for the Phoenix nine, is recently from Tucson, and has been playing with the Brannans.

The Republican is in receipt of a communication from Manager Vaughn of the Cubs baseball team of negro players, saying that he thinks that his team is entitled to credit for creating, with the old Rattlers, now Maroons, more well organized interest in baseball, this year, so far, than was ever seen in the capital town before.

Manager Vaughn is also defiant, in a baseball way, toward the teams of the Salt River valley league, inviting them to cross bats with his team on the diamond.

He also announces that the Cubs will play with a team from Globe on the Eastlake grounds on September 21, that being the last day of the big emancipation celebration organized by the negroes of the territory and advertised far and wide, at which Booker T. Washington and other eminent negro educators are to be among the speakers. The claim made for the Cubs, of having put baseball on its feet in a very orderly and substantial manner, this spring, is well founded, and it is quite possible that the fact that the team is not in the Salt River Valley league is as much the fault of the Cubs for not applying for admission into the league as it is that of anyone else in any way. If any application from them should be refused by the present members of the league, then a "defy" might be in order, and might be made to contribute greatly to the interest in baseball. History has demonstrated that the Tucson baseball club, at least is not very dependable as a means of sustaining the baseball interest of Phoenix fans.

MEXICAN CUTTING SCRAPE EARLY THIS MORNING

Two Mexicans engaged in a quarrel at the corner of First and Washington streets, early this morning, which may result in the death of one of them. He was badly cut around the head and in the face by the other with a jackknife. Fortunately a policeman was near by, and it is due to his interference that the assault was not a murder. The injured man was taken to the Sisters hospital, and after an exciting chase the other was secured and jailed in the city jail. Both of them were too drunk to give their names.

A MATCH.

If love were what the rose is,
And I were like the leaf,
Our lives would grow together
In sad or singing weather,
Blown fields of flowerful closes,
Green pleasure or gray grief;
If love were what the rose is,
And I were like the leaf.

If I were what the words are,
And love were like the tune,
With double sound and single
Delight our lips would mingle
With kisses glad as birds are
That get sweet rain at noon;
If I were what the words are,
And love were like the tune.

If you were life, my darling,
And I your love were death,
We'd shine and snow together
Ere March made sweet the weather
With daffodil and starling
And hours of fruitful breath;
If you were life, my darling,
And I your love were death.

If you were thrall to sorrow
And I were page to joy,
We'd play for lives and seasons
With loving looks and treasons
And tears of night and morn
And laughs of maid and boy;
If you were thrall to sorrow,
And I were page to joy.

If you were April's lady,
And I were lord of May,
We'd throw with leaves for hours,
And draw for days with flowers
Till day like night were shady
And nights were bright like day;
If you were April's lady,
And I were lord of May.

If you were queen of pleasure,
And I were king of pain,
We'd hunt down love together,
Pluck out his flying-feather,
And teach his feet a masure,
And find his mouth a rein;
If you were queen of pleasure
And I were king of pain.

TELLING THE CHIEF GOOD-BY.
The Last Time Jacob Riss Ever Saw Charles A. Dana.

I like to think of my last meeting with Charles A. Dana, the "Old Chief" as he was always called in the office. In all the years I was on the Sun I do not think I had spoken with him a half dozen times. When he wanted anything of me personally, his orders were very brief and to the point. It was generally something—a report to be digested or the story of some social experiment—which showed me that in his heart he was faithful to his early love; he had been in his youth, as everybody knows, an enthusiastic reformer, a member of the Brook Farm Community. But if he thought I saw, he let no sign escape him. He hated shame; perhaps I was on trial all the time. If so, I believe that he meant to tell me in that last handshake that he had not found me wanting. It was on the stairs in the Sun office that we met. I was going up, he was coming down—I was going home to die. He knew it. In me there was no suspicion of the truth when I came upon him at the turn of the stairs, stumbling along that we have decided to continue to guarantee good paying positions to graduates of our Combined or Complete Course who purchase the $80.00 Scholarship, good for 32 weeks' instruction.

Nearly one hundred of our last year's students are now working at good salaries. Several are making $75.00 or more per month and a few more than $100.00 per month. Our students know how to do things. We have the schoolrooms, offices, equipment, and experienced teachers who have held responsible office positions successfully themselves, to train our students. An immense amount of business is carried on in our own office so that we give all of our advanced students actual office experience. A well known Railway official said: "That young man you sent me, is doing excellent work. The Lamson Business College knows how to prepare young people for office work. We are going to pay the young man $75.00 per month."

Another Railway official said: "That young lady from the Lamson Business College did better work the first day in my office than half the experienced stenographers that I have employed."

A prominent business man and politician said: "I don't know what the business men of Phoenix would do if it were not for the Lamson Business College. When we get behind with our work or have extra work to do, all we have to do is to send up and they send us as many of their students as we desire. And the strange part of it is that these students know how to do things just like old office help."

Of course they do! That is the way we teach them to do things! For full information write, or better still, call at our office and see for yourself what we have and what we can do.

I was going up, he was coming down—I was going home to die. He knew it. In me there was no suspicion of the truth when I came upon him at the turn of the stairs, stumbling along in a way very unlike the usual springy step of the Old Chief. I hardly knew him when he passed, but as he turned along! And with another hearty handshake he was gone. He never saw the was Mr. Dana, looking somehow older than I had ever seen him, and changed. I took off my hat and we shook hands. "Well," he said, "have you reformed everything to suit you; straightened out every kink in town?" "Pretty nearly," I said, falling into his tone of banter; "all except the Sun office. That is left yet, and as bad as ever."

It was the only time he had ever held out his hand to me, after that first meeting of ours when I was a lonely lad, nearly thirty years before. That time there was a dollar in it and I snatched it. This time I like to believe his heart was in it. And I took it gladly and gratefully—Jacob A. Riss: "The Making of an American."
